

Preparations for 2nd session of 5+5 meeting on “Quality Digital Educational for All”

Preparations for the second session of the 5+5 meeting on “Quality Digital Education for All” were the focal point of a meeting held Wednesday between Minister of Education and Training Hatem Ben Salem and diplomatic adviser at the French National Education Ministry Antoine Godbert.

The second session of the 5+5 meeting, set for December 2010 in Tunis, is designed to follow up implementation of the recommendations of the first session held late September 2009 in Paris under the theme of digital development in the educational sector and which ended with the adoption of a 5+5 Charter on Internet at school.

Mr. Antoine Godbert expressed consideration for Tunisia’s keenness to boost Euro-Mediterranean co-operation. He pointed out that the first session of this high-level meeting, which Tunisia had called to hold and whose works it had chaired with France, achieved the goals sought-after.

The talk also made it possible to review Tunisian-French co-operation in the area of education, particularly at the level of educators’ training and digital twinning between the two countries' high schools.
