

Tunisia takes part in International Conference on "Education Promotion Project" in Manama

Tunisia is taking part in works of the International Conference on "Education Promotion Project for 2010," held in Manama, Bahrain, on October 8-10, 2010.

Education Minister Hatem Ben Salem is leading the Tunisian delegation to these works. He had, on Thursday, a meeting with his Bahraini counterpart, Mr. Majed Ben Ali al Nouaymi, during which the two officials looked at means to strengthen bilateral co-operation in the education sector, particularly ways to improve efficiency of educational institutions, promote teachers' competence and exchange expertise and experience.

Mr. Hatem Ben Salem pointed out that Tunisia's participation in this event, in Manama, represents a renewed opportunity to bolster co-operation between the two countries, notably in the education and scientific research fields.

For his part, the Bahraini minister highlighted the long- standing fraternity and co-operation relations binding the two countries.

In this connection, he commended the high level of Tunisia's educational system, which is evidenced by the efficiency of Tunisian skills, whose experience and know-how are of great benefit to the Bahraini Kingdom.
