

Education Minister: strong determination to guarantee success to national exams

Education Minister Taïeb Baccouche stressed the determination of all stakeholders in the education sector to ensure total success to the national exams, notably those of the baccalauréat.

He also insisted that, overall, the current school year could be seen as a successful one, despite the exceptional situation.

He lauded the efforts exerted by teachers, administrative members of staff, pupils, parents and social partners, security forces, the Army and volunteers' committees, to guarantee good progress of the baccalaureate exams, which are to start on Thursday June 9, 2011, in 512 examination centres across the national territory, with a total of 126,767 candidates.
